

Design meets nature

The concept cabinet "greenTHEK" is HAUSER'S response to the current trends around sustainability and the environment. We have replaced steel with carbon-neutral wood in the substructure and exchanged the foam and sheet metal of the well construction with wood-based materials and natural insulating material. The front and side panelling is made of oiled solid wood.

In addition to the variant shown here, we can implement many other design concepts, which can be developed together with the customer.

- ⊕ Innovative construction made of sustainable wood and wood-based materials as well as natural insulating material.
- ⊕ Around 110 kg CO₂ can be saved per meter of length compared to a conventional display case.
- ⊕ High versatility - the cabinet can be adapted to the customer's individual needs.
- ⊕ The advanced VITHEA CO₂ refrigeration technology offers high cooling capacity at maximum energy efficiency.
- ⊕ Simple and safe disposal of components at the end of service life.
